Spoken: (3:31)

Now lift up your hands all over this building. And receive the word of the Lord. You may have come through some situations and circumstances. Look at me for a minute. How many of you know that the Bible declares that the end of a thing is better than the beginning of a thing. God knows the end from the beginning, and God promises that the glory of the latter house shall be greater than the glory of the former house. I just want to take a moment right now and minister to those of you that have been through something, and the enemy has lied to you, and told you that the best is behind you. I've come to call the devil a liar, and say that the best is in front of you, that your latter will be greater, that you haven't seen anything yet. Your best days, and your blessed days, they are ahead of you. That your problems don't equal your promises. The Devil's "no" cannot compete with God's "yes." Sing the best is yet to come!

Section 3: (4:19)
